Emerging Wisely Current State: Relaxing Phase 1: First Steps

Indoor Gatherings

Each household can have up to five people they don't live with come over and be inside their house, to a maximum of 10 people in total inside the house at any time. This is required.

It's strongly recommended that in your household, you keep a circle of friends as small as possible. Here are a few good ways to do it:

- Keep to your fave five: Stick with the same five people to invite over to your place. Remember – you could still hang out with others at a park or in your backyard as long as you keep two metres apart. Your fave five would just be for inside your house where the risk is highest.
- Have each person in the house pick one person they will have over regularly: this is a great way to make sure your best friends can come over for a coffee, while your household's circle stays small.
- If you're having someone over who's older, has a weaker immune system, or has an illness already, we strongly recommend your house doesn't have anyone else over while they are.

It's also strongly recommended that you keep physical distance of two metres in your house as much as you can to protect each other.

Outdoor Gatherings

Outdoor gatherings will be limited to 25 persons or less – with strict physical distancing measures in-place.

Children 12 years of age and under may engage in outdoor play with one another and are not required to maintain a minimum distance from one another.

Outdoor kitchen shelters and day use areas at parks can be opened. Overnight camping is not permitted at campgrounds until phase two.

Our message to residents: use your common sense to protect each other while we all get some relief from being cooped up. Enjoy the
